What is botulinum toxin?

Botulinum is a substance that is produced by a bacteria; it is then highly refined, purified, diluted and used in therapeutic doses. Botulinum is administered by injecting it into a specific facial muscle where it acts as a muscle relaxant.

Who would benefit from this treatment?

Anyone can benefit from botulinum, both men and women. Botulinum is most effective in improving lines or wrinkles due to facial expressions; for example, worry lines or frown lines on the forehead and between the eyebrows. This is because these lines are usually caused by overactive muscles and the treatment stops these muscles from contracting and causing the wrinkles.

You should not have treatment with botulinum if you are pregnant, breast-feeding, have a neurological disease or a known hypersensitivity to it.

How long does the treatment take?

In most cases the treatment will take between 10 and 20 minutes. Effects will begin to appear very quickly within 48 to 72 hours, although the full extent of the treatment may not be visible for up to 10 days. In some cases approximately two weeks after the first treatment, the effects will be reviewed with your practitioner and any further treatments or top-ups can be discussed.

Is the treatment uncomfortable?

Very tiny needles are used and only small amounts are administered. As a result any discomfort is usually minimal and short-lived, that's why there is no need for local anaesthesia.

Are there any adverse effects?

In a small number of cases there may be some localised bruising, slight swelling, or redness at the site of the injection. This usually disappears very quickly and can respond to the application of a cool pack to the area. A temporary drooping eyelid has also occurred in some patients. Botulinum has been used in thousands of patients over the last fifteen years. It is made in a controlled laboratory environment, highly purified, and administered in tiny quantities. It has an excellent safety profile.

How long will the effects of this treatment last?

Initially the improvement that you receive from this treatment will last from 3 to 4 months. You will notice a gradual fading of effect and at this stage you can return for another treatment if you want to. With repeated treatments, the effect lasts longer.

What are dermal fillers?

Dermal fillers are a non-surgical cosmetic treatment used to restore volume or fullness to the face and lips. As we age, both naturally and because of external factors e.g sun damage, smoking etc, we lose collagen, fat and other moisturising properties from our skin. As a result, the skin becomes thin, sags and folds, lines and shadows develop. Fillers can help act like a scaffolding to restore lost fat and volume to plump out lines and wrinkles.

Is the treatment uncomfortable?

A local anaesthetic cream is applied to make the treatment as comfortable as possible.

How long do dermal fillers last?

The longevity of a filler depends on the type of filler that is used. The thickness of filler varies depending on the location and result desired. On average, you would expect the effect of filler to last around 6-12 months.

What is Profound/ Neofound skin Biostimulation?

Profound is a popular bio-stimulation skin treatment where nano needles are used to place a cocktail of skin's key nutrients including hyaluronic acid & amino acids under the skin.

- These essential nutrients along with collagen stimulation help :-
- Reduce fine lines and wrinkles
- Reduce inflammation, acne, 'mask'-ne, psoriasis, eczema
- Reduce pigmentation- e.g sunspots, melasma, acne scars
- Improves longevity of filler and botulinum toxin treatments

Overall, Profound provides skin that is more hydrated, glowing and firmer while slowing the process of aging.
